

Forschung und Lehre

SpEAKing: Language Skills as a Key for Contemporary Research on Southeast Asia

Timo Duile, Kristina Großmann, Adriani Nangoy, Xuang Hang Nguyen, and Oliver Pye

Summary

In order to connect language learning and other classes and to enhance the quality of language classes, the SpEAKing project at the Department for Southeast Asian Studies at the University of Bonn consists of four parts: digitalization of language learning materials, eTandems in cooperation with Universities in Southeast Asia, a module which combines Thai classes with classes on social and political issues in Thailand, and research practices classes together with Students from Southeast Asian Universities.

Keywords: cooperative learning, intercultural learning, digitalization, language learning, Southeast Asia

Timo Duile studied Political Science, Philosophy and Cultural Anthropology and obtained his PhD in Southeast Studies. He is currently coordinator of the SpEAKing Project at the Department for Southeast Asian Studies, Bonn University. tduile@uni-bonn.de

Kristina Großmann is Professor for Anthropology of Southeast Asia at the Department of Southeast Asian Studies, Bonn University. Since 2020, she is leading the SpEAKing project. kgrossma@uni-bonn.de; ORCID 0000000261789258

Adriani Nangoy studied Southeast Asian Studies and Sociology at the University of Bonn. She is lecturer of the Indonesian language and responsible in the SpEAKing Project for the digitization of Indonesian learning materials and eTandem. anangoy@uni-bonn.de

Xuang Hang Nguyen is a lecturer for the Vietnamese language at the department for Southeast Asia studies. She holds a Magister degree in German as a foreign language and in sociology. She is working as a German-Vietnamese and Vietnamese-German translator and interpreter.

Oliver Pye is a lecturer in Southeast Asian Studies at Bonn University, with a focus on political ecology, the social relations of nature, labour geography and social movements. He has been working in and on Thailand since 1995. Oliver.pye@uni-bonn.de